

Global Family
protecting children preserving families

Director of Mental Health/Head of Service

Global Family Care Network, Inc.

Daughter Project Girls Home (DPGH) Short Term Residential Therapeutic Program (STRTP)

Organization

Global Family is a non-profit organization operating in the USA and around the world. Founded in 2007, Global Family & the Daughter Project aims to protect children and preserve families by providing alternative, family-based care for children who are abandoned, abused, and exploited. We have created several initiatives outside the scope of direct family care, including the prevention and intervention of human trafficking, and the promotion of local and asset-based community solutions around the world using media to change perceptions around women and their rights in society.

The DPGH STRTP provides crisis and intervention care for individuals who are identified as commercially sexually exploited children (CSEC). The shelter home provides specialized services that meet the complex needs of CSEC as well as a safe environment conducive to healing from any trauma. No child should be in a circumstance where they are displaced from a home, vulnerable to being out on the streets, and thus vulnerable to further exploitation, abuse, neglect, and/or commercial sexual exploitation or trafficking.
